The sick, nervous, fretful, useless, helpless, irritable, woman makes her husband miserable. If he is a good, temperate, God-fearing man, he tries to soothe and comfort her. If he is only an ordinary man, he cowers and gets drunk. Few men realize what it is that makes a woman cross, fretful, and nervous. If they did, they would see to it that their wives took proper care of the health of the organs distinctly feminine, and resorted to the proper remedy to make them strong and healthy in a womanly way.

The best medicine for nervous, fretful, irritable women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It goes to and corrects the cause. It acts directly on the feminine organism and restores it to natural health and vigor. It soothes inflammation and corrects all weakening drains. It will make a sick woman well, and a fretful, cross woman happy and amiable. It prepares a woman for the duties of motherhood, and taken during the expectant period makes baby's coming easy and almost painless. Women who wish to know more about this great remedy should write to its discoverer, Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y.

Mr. S. J. Bartlett (Teacher), of Granger, Sweetwater Co., Wyo., writes: "Dr. Pierce: I desire to certify that your 'Favorite Prescription' is a boon and a great help to all females. My wife has used your medicine. Prior to taking it, she was constantly troubled with female weakness, and monthly, and frequently, irregular flows that incapacitated her for the labors incident to raising a large family. She is now well."

Whoever would find a conclusive answer to the problem: "How to be well," should send to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., for a copy of Doctor Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. This book is all that its title implies. It uses no technical terms. Its 600 pages of graphic explanation and carefully correct illustrations make it a treasure for any household. Its 60 pages especially relating to women are worth many times its original price, which was $1.50. There is now ready a large edition to be given away. Send 21 one-cent stamps, to pay for mailing only, and you will receive the book in paper covers absolutely FREE. You may have it in fine cloth covers for 10 cents extra.

A STATE NATIONAL BANK.

The Nevada Bank and Sather Bank of San Francisco are to become National banks on January 1, 1897. It is expected that Congress at the next session will grant further privileges to National banks, hence many banks now conducted under State laws intend to become National institutions.

It is suggested that the State engage in the National banking business. It has $600,000 in United States bonds in the vaults of the State Treasury. By depositing these bonds with the Comptroller of the Currency at Washington and getting a charter as a National bank it will get 90 percent of the value of the bonds in National bank notes. These notes the State can loan on good security at the current rate of interest, and at the same time receive from the United States 4 per cent interest on the bonds, just as at present. By this method it will get double interest on the money invested—4 per cent from the Government on the bonds and 8 or 10 per cent interest, as the law may provide, on the notes issued by the Government to the bank. The bonds cannot be taxed for State, county or municipal purposes, and as the State would receive interest on the bonds, as it does now, and interest on the notes issued by the Government to the bank, it could afford to loan money at a low rate of interest, or, if it charged current rates, reduce taxation.

Of course, legislation will be necessary on the part of the State before it can engage in the banking business, but it has the necessary capital in United States bonds and it might as well avail itself of the opportunity which the general Government affords capital to increase its wealth by engaging in the National banking business. By incorporating under the banking law and depositing $600,000 in bonds with the Treasury Department it can get 90 per cent on the face value of bonds, that is, $576,000 in bank notes, which it can loan to residents of the State on good security and make money enough to run the State Government.

As it is very probable that Mr. Reed's Congress, at the ensuing session, will endeavor to retire greenbacks, so that National banks alone can issue paper money, and that the banks will receive notes up to the full par value of the bonds which they deposit in the Treasury, there may be greater inducements than those mentioned for the State to open a National bank.

The contest for the control of the Ohio legislature is still in progress. The official counting will continue in some counties all of next week. The indications now show that the legislature will stand 75 Republicans and 70 Democrats on joint ballot. There may be several contested seats, but these are an after consideration. It is conceded that Hanna will be the caucus nominee for Senator and that there will be little doubt of his election. It is reported that there is an anti-Hanna combine among Republicans, but it is not believed that such a combine will exert much influence with the members of the legislature. The chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee concedes the Republicans five majority on joint ballot and Hanna will be chosen Senator.

The demonstrations against General Weyler are becoming more emphatic and each day brings forward some new development that shows the contempt he is held in. A dispatch from Madrid yesterday says that at a public meeting he was severely censured, and that the question was asked: "What has Weyler done, only to send us back thousands of dying soldiers?"

SECRETARY ALGER has notified U. S. Mason, President of the Chamber of Commerce at Portland, Oregon, that nothing can be done concerning the Alaskan sufferers without Congressional authority. He suggests, however, that all particulars be procured that are possible and the attention of Congress will be called to it.

LATE news from Hawaii announces that contracts have been signed in New York for 80,000 tons of Hawaiian sugar of the crop of 1898. Another large block of sugar has been taken by the refinery at Port Costa, Cal. The deal will be of great advantage to the planters, as it assures a market for next season.

A political sensation was caused yesterday at Philadelphia by the arrest and imprisonment of several United States Government as well as city employees charged with conspiracy. The parties are prominent and are charged with issuing fraudulent naturalization papers.

W. N. FOSTER, treasurer of the Lubbeck Savings Bank, was arrested at Lubbeck, Mexico, yesterday. Foster is charged with crookedness which resulted in the closing of the bank. Bail was fixed at $20,000, but the defendant was unable to furnish bail.

A convention between the United States, Russia and Japan looking to the joint protection of the seals was signed at the State Department at Washington yesterday. The signing of the treaty was conducted with considerable formality.

A DECISION rendered by Judge Barker of the Ninth Circuit Court at Toledo, Ohio, yesterday is to the effect that the Board of Supervisors must certify to the returns of Center township. This decision elects Norris, a Republican, representative.

HOW FLIES WALK UPSIDE DOWN.

An Entomologist Advances a New Theory to Explain the Phenomenon.

In our youth we were taught that flies adhered to the ceiling or to the window pane because their feet were provided with suckers from which they had the power of exhausting the air, says the Hartford Courant. This was disproved by the fact that a fly could run up the side of an exhausted glass receiver when a vacuum under his feet would do him no good, even if he had the power of creating it, and by the further fact that a microscopic examination showed that his feet were not provided with suckers, but with multitudes of hairs from which exuded a fluid in minute drops. It was then suggested that this fluid was viscous or gummy, so that the fly adhered by a sort of mucilage. This, too, was disproved, as it was shown that the fluid possessed no adhesive properties. By a series of careful experiments detailed in Our Animal Friends Dr. Drerhold proves that capillary attraction, the adhesion of water to a surface, is enough to support a fly even if he were 50 per cent heavier than he is. The hairs give out an infinitesimal drop of water, and as there are a great number of them the fly is enabled to hang on the ceiling and to tickle any sensitive surface on which he alights in a highly scientific manner.

From Sea to Sea by Crossing Only Thirty Miles of Land.

Alaska is a most difficult country for traveling, even in the only available short season of its arctic summer, there being no roads; and even Indian trails, on account of the small number of natives, are very rare, says Outing. The surface is rough, being traversed by many ranges of mountains. Even in the more level portions travel is hindered in the summer by the wet moss, which grows knee deep, and by the insect pests; in the winter it is made impossible by the intense cold. In view of all these difficulties, the peculiar relation of the Yukon river to the coast is such that one might fancy nature had arranged it especially for a highway through this inaccessible interior, in partial compensation to man for the obstacles she has put in his way.

The headquarters of the network of streams that ultimately drain into the Yukon river fortunately lie within 30 miles of the sea, just on the northern or inland side of a range of mountains which runs along the southern coast of Alaska. From this point the river flows north away from the sea, far toward the Arctic ocean; then, suddenly changing its mind, turns west; and finally, after traversing the whole width of Alaska, arrives at the Behring sea, its entire course being considerably over 2,000 miles. For a considerable distance it is a broad and deep stream, so that one may go quite through the center of Alaska, from sea to sea, by crossing only 30 miles or so of land.

Vessel Literally Swarming with Hordes of Hungry Insects.

When the schooner Golden Sheaf arrived at her moorings one day lately with a cargo of logwood everybody on board, from captain down to cook, rushed frantically ashore as though pursued by some unseen enemy. As a matter of fact, says the Philadelphia Record, the vessel was literally swarming with hordes of hungry Jamaica ants. The little pests had invaded the lockers and dived headlong into the sugar barrels. After finishing the contents of these they proceeded to bore holes through the supply ofhardtack, and ate everything before them, until it was feared that the stock of provisions on board would run short. There was a cessation from their attacks the other day, the vessel having been caught in a West India hurricane, which flooded the cabin and drenched everything below. It was supposed that the intruders had all been drowned, but after the storm had cleared away they began their attacks with renewed energy. Capt. Chandler, who commands the vessel, stated that there are millions of the insects still on board, and he thought the cargo must have come from the vicinity of ant hills, for which Jamaica is noted. He stated that the ants were in all parts of the vessel, and that in all his experience at sea he had never before met an attack like the newcomers waged against him.

Had No Peace to Make.

The father of a lawyer now well known in San Francisco was in his last illness talking with a clergyman, when the latter asked him if he had made his peace with God. "Sir," replied the old gentleman, "the Lord and I have never had any trouble."

HOW JAPAN COMMEMORATES.

Deeds of Valor in War Kept in Remembrance.

The military revival of Japan, which began with the conquest of China, showed itself in the various ways the great industries of the country celebrated the heroic incidents and victories of the war, says Atlantic. The toy-makers sent out legions of mechanical toys representing the flight of Chinese soldiers, the storming of Port Arthur and the fight of the Japanese flagship with the enemy's ironclads.

Artists commemorated the nation's triumphs in porcelain, metal work and lacquer ware. Designers portrayed them on the dresses of men, women and children. Tobacco pouches, sleeve buttons, hairpins, combs and even chopsticks were covered with representations that expressed the war spirit.

Bundles of toothpicks in tiny cases were offered for sale, each toothpick having engraved upon it, in microscopic text, a different poem about the war.

Gallant deeds were dramatized. The fatal courage of a Japanese soldier who scaled a rampart and opened a fortress gate to his comrades; the heroism of 14 troopers who held their own against 300 infantry; the successful charge of unarmed coolies upon a Chinese battalion were reproduced before thousands of spectators. Mr. Hearn mentions one incident whose realistic portrayal must have thrilled the audience—the death of the bugler, Shirakami Genjiro.

At the battle of Song-Hwan this Japanese bugler was ordered to sound the charge. He had sounded it once when a bullet passed through his lungs, throwing him down. His comrades tried to take the bugle away, seeing his wound was fatal. He wrested it from them, lifted it again to his lips, sounded the charge once more with all his strength and fell back dead.

PEACHES WITHOUT DOWN.

Remarkable Results of a Maryland Horticulturist's Experimenting.

Mr. William P. Winter, a retired carpenter, who lives at No. 826 North Carey street, has entered heart and soul into the wizard business with remarkable results. In a cozy little back yard of Mr. Winter's home grows a peach tree that has produced annual crops of luscious fruit for a number of years. Two years ago Mr. Winter grew weary of the conventional covering of the peaches in his limited orchard, and determined at least to produce a peach minus that objectionable nap or down.

He began a series of experiments, and that year produced a peach clothed in the ordinary raiment of the banana, but, not satisfied with the result of his startling assault on nature, he has succeeded in producing a crop, which is just now ripe, that looks for all the world like a tree full of apples. The skin of the fruit is perfectly smooth and of a dark red hue, shading gradually into a yellow that Mr. Winter claims is a remnant of the banana skin.

"Next year," said he, "I will have an orange skin on them." The method employed by Mr. Winter to produce these startling results is a profound secret, and he is preparing to copyright the scheme. Grapevines, as well as peach trees, tremble before the skill of the ex-carpenter, and among the curious things that thrive in the rear of 826 North Carey street is a vine of this sort that bears at this time ripe grapes as sweet as honey and usually large, half-ripe grapes, blossoms and buds, which Mr. Winter expects to ripen by Christmas.—Baltimore American.

A STATE PRISONER FROM CHURCHILL.

The First Sent up From That County for a Quarter of a Century.

Sheriff F. L. Small of Churchill county delivered to Warden Henderson of the State Prison yesterday a man named Claudius Clark, who had been sentenced to five years' imprisonment by Judge Cheney for attempting to wreck a train on the Central Pacific railroad at the time of the Christian Endeavor Convention last July. Clark was detected in the act of placing ties on the railroad track for the evident purpose of wrecking a train. He was arrested and taken to Stillwater, was indicted by the Grand Jury, pleaded guilty as charged and sentenced as stated.

This is the first time in twenty-five years that Churchill has had a representative in State Prison. While there are about twenty-nine miles of railroad in the county there is not a village on the line of the road in the county, consequently it is not afflicted with that production of civilization and prosperity known as "tramps." There being no stopping place for tramps there are few crimes committed in the county and Churchill does not patronize the State Prison very liberally, nor does it have many inmates in its County Jail. As a consequence taxes are low, there is money in the County Treasury, the county is out of debt and its people prosperous and contented.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

Governor Sadler Recommends Thursday, November 25th.

In conformity with a time-honored custom, and in acknowledgment of the manifold blessings vouchsafed the people of this commonwealth, I, Reinhold Sadler, Lieutenant and Acting Governor of the State of Nevada, do hereby designate and proclaim Thursday, November 25, A. D. 1897, a day of Thanksgiving, and recommend that the people refrain from their usual avocations and assemble in their respective places of worship, and give thanks to Almighty God for the many favors bestowed upon us. Let us not in this year of bountiful harvests forget the needy and distressed, that all may join in the General Thanksgiving to the Great Giver above.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Nevada, at the Capitol, in Carson City, the fifth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven.
REINHOLD SADLER,
Lieutenant and Acting Governor.
Attest:
EUGENE HOWELL,
Secretary of State.

A New Partner at the Riverside.
Captain Gosse of the Riverside Hotel was all smiles yesterday afternoon and it was at first somewhat puzzling to discover the cause of the Captain's extraordinary good nature, but Professor Lewers had received a tip and with as much importance as the average commercial traveller displays when he walks into the hotel, throws his grip down in an endeavor to shake all of the glassware in the house off the shelves, walks up to the register, slobbers, ink over the greater part of a page, makes a few indecipherable characters that are supposed to represent his name, while George Cheek, the affable clerk, stands near at hand, smiling and bowing, but never speaks his thoughts aloud, the Professor approached the register desk and in bold characters wrote the name, "H. J. Gosse Jr."

Here the professor hesitated. It was evident that he had become confused, he passed his hand over his forehead and went into the reading room and began perusing a Chicago directory. He had registered the new arrival, but was totally lost regarding his last postoffice address.
H. J. Gosse, Jr., has helped the professor out, however, by deciding to remain in Reno permanently.

The Ladies' Minstrels.
The Lady Minstrels scored a success at the Opera House last evening. Notwithstanding the chilly night, there was a fair sized audience, and the frequent and enthusiastic expressions of applause showed that the young ladies' efforts were fully appreciated.
The participants in the minstrel first part were so modest that they declined to have their names on the house program, hence individual mention cannot be made of the several numbers. Two vocal solos and a duet by the young ladies were deserving of special mention. The cake walk was an amusing feature, though somewhat exaggerated. The cake was presented by the judges without the usual ceremonies of such occasions and which always serves to create great fun.
The comedy at the close of the performance was an entertaining variation in the program and was fully enjoyed.
Mrs. Oarris Clarke-Ward is deserving of much credit for the manner in which she has trained the players in the short time allowed her, as well as the able management of the performance.
The Woman's Guild will doubtless receive a neat dividend from the entertainment.

Yesterday's Fire.
The fire alarm yesterday forenoon was occasioned by a blaze in the roof of J. J. Johnson's cottage on the south side of the river. It is supposed that the fire caught from a defective flue. The contents of the house were entirely removed, but the house was damaged to the extent of $500.

The boys done excellent work considering the distance they had to run, and are entitled to great credit. The body of the house was saved, but a new roof will be necessary.

A telegram received from Dr. Stabbs of the state university yesterday asked Rev. M. G. Hamm of this place to come to Reno and preach the funeral sermon of Chas. G. He arrived last night and left for Reno on the early morning train.—Silver State.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

John Mossman, of Parkersburg, W. Va., made a fortune of $500,000 with his nose. He was a deaf mute, and could pick out a piece of ground under which there was an oil well by simply smelling it. He recently lost his life in a railroad accident.

The biggest crab ever captured in Mobile bay was recently caught by Dr. T. Aubrey Dickson and George W. Owen. It weighed two pounds, and measured 23 inches from tip to tip of claws. The shell measured nine inches in length by five in width.

Several farmers in central Kansas are connected by telephones, to permit the farmers' families to engage in social conversation. The instruments cost six dollars each, and the barbed wire inclosing the farms serves to transmit the conversation.

Reports on the Indian wheat crop are beginning to come in. From the central provinces we learn that the area of wheat is only 1,896,022 acres, as compared with 2,714,454 acres for 1896, and a ten years' average area, exceeding 4,000,000 acres. The estimated output is 324,755 tons, against 368,330 for 1896 and 734,502 as the ten years' average.

Experiments show that a light of one candle power is plainly visible at one mile, and one of three-candle power at two miles. A ten-candle power light was seen with a binocular at four miles, one of 29 at five miles; though faintly, and one of 33 candleless the same distance without difficulty. On an exceedingly clear night a white light of 3.3 candle power can be distinguished at three miles, one of 5.6 at four and one of 12 at five miles.

It appears that the domestic cricket of Europe, the "cricket of the hearth," has been introduced into this country. In Minneapolis and elsewhere they have proved to be a great nuisance. House agents there claim that besides being tiresome and noisy, they are very destructive, so that "a house invaded by them could not be rented." This cricket was observed in Canada by Kalm in 1749, and its recent occurrence there has been confirmed by two well-known entomologists; and it has been observed in various eastern towns by Ulmer and others, but it has not hitherto been common in the United States, though frequently observed in Canada.

IRELAND AS A RESORT.

She Is Improving Her Hotel and Railway Accommodations.

The question is continually asked: Why is Ireland, with its exquisite scenery and almost unrivaled beauty, neglected by the peripatetic Saxon? There are, or have been, invariably two methods of solving the problem, says the St. James Gazette. The Saxon has shrugged his shoulders and repeated for the thousandth time the old formula about the discomfort and the excessively high tariff of the Irish hotel. Or, on the other hand, he may have remarked on the dilatoriness of the Irish railway train.

It is not for us to deny that, to a very considerable degree, complaints of this character have been more than justified; but a recent and rather extended experience of both these necessary adjuncts to the business of touring has revealed to us the fact that such grounds of dissatisfaction are being rapidly and certainly removed. Ireland has at last awakened to her possibilities as a tourist resort which—whether it be in sea, mountain, lake or river scenery—rivals if it does not excel Scotland and Wales. She is accelerating and improving her railway service; she is opening up new and—for the tourist—virgin routes; her hotel proprietors are alive to the necessity for materially changing their methods; and, given these conditions, there can be no possible reason in the world why Ireland should not obtain a fair share of the holiday harvest which at present is bestowed with bounteous hand upon the continent.

CURED BY EXPERIENCE.

Why the Boys Are Not Going to Alaska.

A story was told on the dock recently in Seattle of three young men who were cured of the Alaskan fever in a very practical manner, says the Post-Intelligencer. They had concluded that they would go on the Al-Ki, and had purchased three berths.

"Now, you boys," said the aged adviser, "want to remember that it's pretty cold up there. It's pretty low temperature here to-day, but nothing to what you'll find on the Yukon." Now, let me advise you. Before going to that country you would better have some experience. You may not like it and then you will want to come back. To-night promises to be pretty cold. I have a tent at my house that I used in Alaska. You boys take the tent out on Queen Ann hill and sleep in it to-night.

"It is now ten o'clock. Don't eat anything until about eight o'clock this evening. Then build a fire in your tent, cook some beans and bacon, fix up some unsweetened black coffee and make a meal. Until bedtime sit around the fire smoking and chewing tobacco and playing cards, and then fix up a rough bunk on the ground and sleep until morning. If you enjoy it, go to Alaska; if not, stay at home."

The boys caught up with the idea enthusiastically, and promised to carry out the programme. Whether they did or not is not known, but the other morning three miserable-looking boys canceled three tickets on the Al-Ki, and as they humbly left the steamship office one was heard to say:

"Do you suppose it really gets that cold in Alaska?"

Asiatic Vines in France.
Japanese and Chinese vines have been successfully acclimated near Alencon, in northern France, in a district where grapes for wine have never been raised. Their fruit ripens in the middle of September, and produces a fair, weak white that can be used to "cut" the stronger southern wines.

TRAVELING RAILROAD SCHOOL.

Its Purpose is to Teach Engineers to Properly Use the Air Brake.
A traveling schoolhouse is one of the curiosities of modern railroading. It is a queer schoolhouse, and it cost $10,000 to build. It is filled with levers, air-chambers, cylinders, whistles, gauges, valves, cords and pipes, and at one end is an upright steam boiler and air pump, used in compressing the air with which the apparatus is operated.
No children attend this school. Many of the pupils are grizzled, grimy veterans, who have been railroading for years. Others are younger men, and there is a sprinkling of boys from 16 years old up. They are taught by a regular professor, a graduate of a mechanical college. His pupils have no books. They listen while he talks and watch while he demonstrates the workings of the air brake. His classes are usually held from nine till eleven o'clock in the morning and from seven till nine o'clock at night, so that he can have for pupils the railroad men who have recently come in off their runs.
The air brake is the one subject taught. From 15 to 25 pupils will crowd into the small space on the side of the middle of the room not occupied by apparatus. The professor is usually in his shirt sleeves and bareheaded, for the atmosphere in the room is always from 90 to 110 degrees, made so by the steam boiler. The professor has only one book, and while he is delivering his lectures and talking about the possibilities as well as the troubles of the air brake he keeps this book in the hip pocket of his trousers. After his lecture is over he takes it out, and it is then found to be only a small blank book. In this he writes the names of the members of the class before him. He will then question the pupils, and jot down opposite each name the percentage of correct answers given. Any who fall below a certain mark have to come back to school for another lesson. Sometimes it takes three or four lessons to teach a man the principles of the air brake, sometimes a man will thoroughly understand the intricacies of the system at one lesson.
The apparatus represents a locomotive and a train of 17 cars. Each car is represented by an air cylinder. The professor shows how easy it is by the proper manipulation of the engineer's lever to put all the brakes on at once and to release them all at once. He then shows how unskilled engineers can and often do release one or two brakes at a time, thus affecting the efficiency of the service. He illustrates the emergency application, in which the entire 17 cars have their brakes set in one second by the watch.
"This was what was done by the drunken legislator," he said, "at the famous Tarrytown disaster. Unfortunately the legislator was on the forward section of the train, and when he pulled the emergency rope it stopped the train, and before the brakes could be released the train following it crashed into the rear coach."
The professor does not charge his pupils tuition. He is paid by the road to teach the employees the use and abuse of the air brake. The instruction car, in this traveling schoolhouse is called, because to the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad and has been in Lexington for the past week, and its schoolmaster, Prof. Bentley, has instructed here full 100 of the road's employees. He travels over the road the year round, stopping at the ends of divisions for a week or more, as becomes necessary.—N. Y. Sun.

THE WIT OF JUVENILES.
Teacher—"Fritz, tell me the name of the animal who furnishes us with hams?" "The butcher."
Aunt—"Well, Bobby, what do you want to be when you grow up?" Bobby (suffering from parental discipline)—"An orphan."

"Paul! Say, paw!" little Johnny began. "Now, what do you want?" asked his suffering father, with the emphasis on the "now." "Will my hair fall off when it's ripe, like yours?"

A little girl on Long Island offered a rather remarkable prayer a few nights ago, when she said: "I do thank Thee, God, for all my blessings and I'll do as much for you some time."

"What is an average?" asked the teacher. The class seemed to be posed, but a little girl held out her hand eagerly: "Please, it's what a hen lays her eggs on." Dewilderment followed, but the mite was justified by the lesson book, in which was written: "The hen lays 200 eggs a year on an average."
